

News Release

For immediate use
October 8, 2008

Media Contact: Jessica Lieb
919-247-6773
lieb.jessica@gmail.com

Local CEO re-appointed to Accounting & Advisory Customer Council for national software company

RALEIGH, NC - Alpha Accounting CEO, Leslie Hamm, has been re-appointed to the 17-member Accountant & Advisory Customer Council for Intuit, Inc., a leading provider of business and financial management solutions for small businesses, consumers and accounting professionals. Intuit Inc.'s flagship products include Quicken, QuickBooks and TurboTax.

"I enjoy being a part of the council because it allows our clients and our team to have an inside track to Intuit, ensuring that we have our input and requests heard," said Leslie Hamm, president and CEO of Alpha Accounting.

Hamm was chosen as a representative to the Council in 2007 among a pool of 230 applicants nationwide. Council members serve one to two years as the voice of the accounting industry to Intuit, Inc. Periodically the council meets at Intuit's headquarters in Mountain View, California to share their insights, experience and expertise with Intuit as the company develops new products and services for accountants and advisors, as well as their clients nation-wide.

Intuit began the Customer Advisory Councils in 1993 as part of the company's initiative to develop end-to-end technology solutions that address the financial and accounting needs of accountants, business advisors and their clients.

Founded in 1996, Alpha Accounting is based in Raleigh, North Carolina.

-30-

Alpha Accounting media contact: Jessica Lieb, 919-247-6773.

Leslie Hamm